Dastaar

A part of the Sikh identity

Why do Sikhs wear a dastaar?

Brief History

- Turban worn in many cultures
 - Asia, Middle East, Africa, and most major religions
 - Protection from heat & sand in desert
 - Protects hair from rain, headlice, dust etc.
 - Especially important for authority figures e.g. kings and holy men
- Mughal rulers wouldn't let non-Muslims and common people wear turbans
 - Signified dignity, high status, spirituality, saintliness
 - Sikhs stood up and demanded equality all faiths, castes, genders, backgrounds
- Especially important for unique Khalsa identity a crown for the 'ਸੰਤ-ਸਿਪਾਹੀ'
- Recent history
 - Patka only came about in 20th century for sportspeople and young children smaller version of parna (also used to protect neck from heat & added armour in battle)
 - Wore dastaar not helmet in WW1&2
 - Fought for right to wear dastaar at work e.g. police, army, bus drivers, when riding motorbikes
 - Confused with Muslim identity in USA after 9/11
 - Facing restrictions in European countries e.g. France, Italy

EXPLORE

Home » Categories » Philosophy and Religion » Religion » Sikhism

Article Edit Discuss

wikiHow to Tie a Sikh Turban

wikiHow to do anything...

Edit Article

Q

Three Methods: Tying a Patka Tying a Basic Turban Tying a Fortress Turban Oceanmunity Q&A

According to the religious texts of the Sikh religion, the followers must wear a turban and not cut their hair.^[1] The style of a Sikh turban and how it is tied is very different from turban styles in other cultures, such as Arab cultures that often leave a tail at the back. [2] You'll find there are many ways to tie a Sikh turban, and you can personalize yours based on your preferences, though below you'll find two variations.

Cookies make wikiHow better. By continuing to use our site, you agree to our cookie policy.

About this wikiHow

Click a star to vote

Co-authors: 11 Updated: 23 weeks ago Views: 9,241

Reader Stories

Anonymous Aug 14, 2016

"Thanks so much for this great tutorial. It really helped a lot. I would recommend this website to ... " more

Tying a Patka

Respect

- Not just a piece of cloth; greater significance a crown!!
- Covering your head is a sign of respect in most cultures
 - In South Asia, don't eat, pray etc. when 'ਨੰਗੇ-ਸਿਰ'
- 'ਪੱਗ-ਵੱਟ ਭਰਾ', 'ਪੱਗ ਵਟਉਣੀ': Exchanging turbans was a sign of brotherhood
 - Bond & trust as strong as real brothers'

DO

- Untile it & fold it up at the end of the day
- Make sure it stays clean, and retie it if it is getting loose
- Tell others about the dastaar so they learn how to respect it too

DON'T

- Take it off like a cap & scrunch it up in your bag
- Let it touch the floor/your feet or get dirty or messy
- Let anyone take off someone's dastaar in anger/fight
 - Massive insult/disrespect

A bit of a moan...!

- Dastaar scheme → motivation, self-confidence, pride in identity
 - Well done to those who have started wearing it at school ⊕
 - Not only for special occasions & getting prizes on Sundays!
- Students who wear a dastaar during assembly are sometimes not wearing one by the end of the day...
 - If uncomfortable or tight you can ask a teacher or sevadaar
 - Should wear the dastaar you are given all day

1. Are Sikhs the only ones who wear turbans?

No! Lots of people from other cultures and religions also wear turbans, but Sikhs are most well-known for the dastaar.

Turbans have been around for thousands of years!

2. What is the historical significance of the dastaar?

Stand against Mughal ban on turbans for non-Muslims & lower classes Khalsa identity – our crown!

3. When do we cover our head? Why?

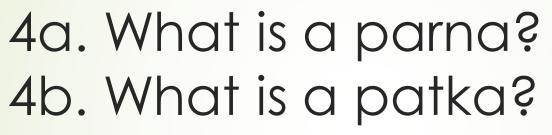

Ideally always

Especially when praying, cooking, eating

Sign of respect

Hygiene/keep hair tidy

Parna = small turban worn informally or under dastaar

Patka = cloth wrapped over head for playing sports, or for young children

5. How can we ensure we respect our dastaar?

Keep it clean, don't let it touch the floor or feet
Untie it respectfully and fold it up
Tie it again if it is loose/coming off
Understand why we are wearing it!